

The Digital Television Transition is coming.

Dear Neighbor,

You may have been hearing a lot lately about the Digital Television Transition happening in February of 2009. We are writing today to tell you a little more about the Federal Communications Commission's national effort, and explain what it means for you.

When the Digital Television Transition, DTV, happens in February of 2009, all local TV stations will be changing to 100% digital programming, causing many old style TV's using "rabbit ear antennas" to go dark. This transition is the FCC's effort to open up the analog airwaves to police, firefighters and other first responders and switch all TV's to a digital signal 100% of the time.

But you don't have to worry - there's an easy way to make sure you won't miss a minute of the local programming you enjoy no matter what kind of TV you have. Just connect to Bright House Networks cable. It's that easy.

You see, Bright House Networks is already delivering the digital format to customers. So when the DTV transition happens, they'll be enjoying the digital broadcast signals immediately.

Just call Bright House Networks at 1-866-898-9101 and ask for cable in your home.
